Second Week Ends Jingle Contest With Grand Climax to the successful contestants.

Thousands of replies were received, and the committee—representatives of The Times-Dispatch and News Leader-spent many hours going over the Jingles and awarding prizes

Here's the FIRST PRIZE Jingle in the Second Week "Velvet Kind Ice Cream" Jingle Contest.

'It is easy to give the reason why The Velvet Kind is the cream to buy, Fine grained and rich, well flavored, too, And firmly frozen when sent to you.' MRS. R. E. BLACKWELL,

"THE VELVET KIND" Jingle Contest closed yesterday at noon with a grand climax. Several thousand more replies were received than last week. The contest was interesting in every particular, and it was after a long deliberation that the prizes were finally awarded.

The first prize Jingle is printed to-day, and the other six "prize jingles" are to be printed in consecutive order, one each day, during the next six days.

WATCH THIS SPACE-YOU MAY BE A PRIZE WINNER.

SPECIAL NOTICE

As a grand climax, at the closing of "The Velvet Kind Ice Cream" Jingle Contest, jingle reached us, by special carrier, that was clever and striking in its entirety, but did not conform entirely to the rules governing contest.

This jingle is of such a character as to command especial mention, so we have awarded the contributor of this "Beautiful Jingle" a special prize of $5.00, and will publish same in Sunday issue of this paper. Are you the winner of this special prize? THE SECOND PRIZE JINGLE WILL BE PUBLISHED TO-MORROW. MAYBE YOU ARE THE FORTUNATE ONE.

The ground limestone so obtained is to be sold to the farmers of the State at prices fixed by the Agricultural Board, the selling price fixed so as just to cover the expenses of operating just to cover the expenses of operating and a reasonable interest on the money invested. In order to be sure every farmer receives his share, the bill provides for the filling of every order already on the books of the cliants before a second shipment is made to any particular farmer. Any profit form the sale of ground limestone is to be given to the State Treasurer, to be placed with the original capital in what, is to be called the "lime-grinding fund." The bill was referred to the legislative committee for presentation to the General Assembly.

To make plain to the legislators in a clear and scientific way the need for such action on the part of the State, Professor Cyril G. Hopkins, perhaps the toremost authority on soll fertilization in the country, was asked to address the members of the General Assembly last night on the subject of "Lime, Limestone and Soil Pertility." When Governor Mann called the meeting to order and presented Professor liopkins the House chamber was packed, gallery and floor, with logislators and interested spectators. "Presented to John F. Jackson, editor of the Southern Planter, by the farmers of Virginia, in appreciative recognition of the Southern Planter, by the farmers of Virginia, in appreciative recognition of his successful labor of a quarter of a century for the advancement of Southern agriculture."

Mr. Jackson, after so many years of editorship, is relinquishing his duttes to return to his home in England. He was taken completely by surprise, but that trembled with emotion.

Final Session.

To-dray will see the final session of what is universally conceded to be the greatest convention of the Farmers' Institute ever held in Virginia. The final act of the convention will be a received by the Richmond Chamber of Commerce to-night in the auditorium of the Jefferson Hotel. Governor Mann and T.M. Carrington will speak. The afternoon session to-day will be in the hands of the Corn Growers' Association, and in this connection the boys' corn judging contects will begin this morning.

The morning session yesterday was purely technical consisting of three practically instructive lectures. Professor C. L. Goodrich, of the United States Department of Agriculture, with the subject, will use the subject, all allumand the context will begin this morning.

The morning session yesterday was practically instructive lectures. Professor C. L. Goodrich, of the United States Department of Agriculture, with the subject, "Humus," offered the actual beneficial results of the combination of the reators tion and conservation of the reators tion and conser total production of farm products in the State during the last decade, but brought out the fact that the European farmer was far ahead of the American planter in soil cultivation and crop pro-duction per acre. The session closed with an address on "The Possibilities of Live Stock," by W. S. Corsa, of Illi-nois, a director of the Percheron So-ciety of America.

Regolutions were then offered thank-ing the president of the association and indorsing his address, thanking the board of directors and supporting the limestone and stallion registration bills,
